professor and chairman

Giuseppe Pino BENAGIANO graduated cum laude in Medicine and Surgery from the University of Rome; did post-graduate training at the Karolinska Institute, Stockholm and the Rockefeller Institute, New York. In 1968 obtained a Ph.D. in Human Reproduction and served as Assistant and Associate Professor in the Institute of Obstetrics and Gynaecology of the University of Rome. In 1973 he joined the World Health Organization, working in Human Reproduction Programme.

In 1980 became Professor of Obstetrics and Gynaecology at the University of Rome 'la Sapienza' and a year later, was elected Director of the First Institute of Obstetrics and Gynaecology, a position held until 1993, when he was named Director of the WHO Special Programme of Research, Development and Research Training in Human Reproduction, an inter-agency United Nations programme. In 1997 he became Director General of the Italian National Institute of Health, a position held until 2001. The same year he was elected Secretary general of the International Federation of Gynecology and Obstetrics, a position held for 6 years.

In 2002 was elected Dean of the I Post-Graduate School in Gynaecology and Obstetrics of the University "la Sapienza" in Rome and retired in 2009, remaining active both in research, teaching and consulting. Following his retirement, he published more than 170 articles.
